Period Charm, Versatile Living and a Secluded Garden

This charming period terraced house combines characterful accommodation with thoughtfully designed living spaces, arranged over four floors. Approached via an attractive red-brick façade with traditional sash windows and a distinctive, blue-painted entrance porch, the front door opens into a hallway with stairs to the upper floors and basement. To the front is a welcoming sitting room featuring a period fireplace, fitted bookshelves and a sash window overlooking the street. This flows through to a separate dining room, also featuring a fireplace, before opening into the kitchen/conservatory at the rear. Flooded with natural light from its extensive glazed roof and windows, this delightful space features Shaker-style cabinetry, wooden worktops and a range-style cooker, with ample room for informal seating and French doors opening directly onto the garden. A ground floor cloakroom completes the accommodation on this level.

Stairs descend to the basement, where a generously proportioned family room provides a wonderfully versatile additional living space. With exposed painted ceiling beams, recessed lighting and useful fitted storage, this room lends itself equally well to use as a snug, home office or occasional guest accommodation.

Stairs descend to the basement, where a generously proportioned family room provides a wonderfully versatile additional living space. Originally intended for use as a TV/cinema room, the space features a large, uninterrupted white wall, ideal for projecting films and other visuals to create a home cinema experience. With exposed painted ceiling beams, recessed lighting and useful fitted storage, the room also lends itself equally well to use as a snug, home office or occasional guest accommodation.

Outside, the delightful rear garden provides a secluded and established setting, enclosed by timber fencing and mature planting. Immediately adjoining the kitchen/conservatory is a gravelled garden area with stepping stones and well-stocked borders, leading to a raised timber deck at the far end. This elevated terrace offers an excellent space for outdoor dining and entertaining, with room for a substantial table and chairs. The property's attractive brick and flint rear elevation, traditional sash windows and glazed conservatory roof provide a particularly appealing backdrop to this charming outdoor space.
