An unusual yet very spacious period home in a convenient town position and with the benefit of a garage/large workshop

Boasting spacious rooms spread across three floors, there's ample opportunity to optimise its potential. Welcoming double doors from the street grant access to the garage, which then leads to a sizable workshop then onto the bathroom/shower room. With the appropriate permissions, this lower area could seamlessly integrate into living space if desired. The first floor features an open-plan living room/kitchen, and bedroom with WC. To the second floor, there are two additional bedrooms. The property benefits from gas-fired central heating throughout and retains many of its original sash windows, adding to its charm dating back to the early 20th century.

There is no private parking with the house, however parking is available on the roadside.
