DESCRIPTION

The property is entered via a spacious entrance hall with 2 reception rooms to either side. To the right is the generous sitting room which was formerly 2 separate reception rooms. There is a pretty bay window overlooking the front gardens and there is an electric wood burner.

Off the entrance hall, to the right is the dining room believed to be in the oldest part of the house with an original stone inglenook fireplace.

Behind the dining room is the homely kitchen / breakfast room with sitting space and electric Rayburn stove.

The former coal house is a utility room at the rear of the house.

There is a straight staircase up to the galleried upper hall, from which 5 double bedrooms and the 2 bathrooms are accessed.

Adjoining the main house is a 2 bedroom duplex annexe built in 1983. This modern addition to the property is currently let, providing a monthly income of £1,000.

LOCATION

Located on the northern edge of the Mendip Hills and situated in an Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty, Blagdon is highly sought after for a reason and is renowned for its friendly community.
